Business Performance

Despite a challenging environment, the KENDRIS group generated a solid result for the year. With a good budget discipline, cost control and some alignments of the workforce capacity, the profitability of the group was maintained.

Thanks to an agile organization and IT infrastructure in combination with a flexible mindset of our people, we were able at all times also during the second year of the pandemic to serve our customers fully and in the usual high quality. We expanded our services and are very content with the many promising results from signing and onboarding new clients in all business segments of the firm.
